MEETING OF STUDENTS' AT THE UNION

Annual Meeting of the Students' Society at Five O'Clock.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

Every Undergrad Especially Urged to Attend.

The annual meeting of the Students' Society is scheduled for this afternoon at five o'clock in the Ball Room of the Union and a huge attendance is hoped for. It is to be remembered that this is a society of students, which is entirely run by students in their own interests, and every man, with any backbone and any real interest in the welfare of his fellow students and himself, should make a point of being in attendance at this important meeting. This event does not come very often during the university life of an undergrad and is certainly not too much to expect that everyone make a special effort to attend.

At today's meeting there will be several questions brought up that should prove of vital interest to every undergrad, whether he be frosh, soph, junior or senior. One of the most important of these questions will be the matter of the election of faculty representatives to the executives of the Major Spartz. In the past, these representatives have been elected at the Society Meeting and by a very small representation from the various faculties. As a consequence of this state of affairs a motion for amendment has been posted, which suggests that the faculty representatives be elected by the various faculties themselves and not at a Society Meeting. This is only one of the important topics for today's meeting and all are urged to attend in order that this may be a real Students' Society and not a society of the small working minority.

SOCIETY FORMED BY MED. UNDERGRADS

To Discuss Works and Teachings of Sir Wm. Osler.

Last Spring a number of undergraduates in Medicine, class of 1924, decided to form a society to deal with the broader aspects of Medicine. The name chosen for this society was "The Osler Society of McGill University," and its object is to perpetuate the memory and teachings of Sir William Osler by the reading of papers and discussion of topics reflecting his ideals of a liberal medical education. A departure from the more practical clinical side of Medicine has been aimed at with a view rather to gain some insight into the subject from its artistic, historic, and romantic aspects. After a student commences his medical course there is very little time or opportunity to do supplementary readings into the many other interesting branches of Medicine which are not mentioned in the curriculum, but which are very necessary for a thorough understanding and appreciation of this great science.

The idea which brought this society into being was originated by Mr. C. J. Tidmarsh, to whom great credit is due, also to Mr. J. S. Henry, Mr. C. N. Ramsay, and Mr. C. S. McIntosh, who gave their combined efforts to the furthering of the idea.

Dr. Whitnall was approached on the matter, and gave his aid enthusiastically. He has been rather a father to the society, and with his hearty co-operation and advice the necessary constitution and by-laws were drawn up.

The first meeting was held the last week of April at Dr. Whitnall's home. Sixteen ardent members were present to hear the constitution and by-laws read and adopted. Then a tentative schedule of papers for the ensuing year was discussed and topics allotted to the various members volunteering to write the first few papers. Each member prepares and reads one paper on a chosen topic a year. These are turned into the Society and filed with a view to possible publication of all the papers delivered during the year. A suitable prize is to be awarded annually to the best paper read.

The membership is limited to 24 undergraduates.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS WILL ERECT BIG MEMORIAL STADIUM

The University of Illinois, adopting the Dartmouth idea, is building a $2,500,000 stadium to be dedicated to the Illinois who fought in the World War. The memorial stadium will be in the center of a 10-acre recreation field to be located in the south campus.

There will be a quarter-mile track and a 220-yard straightaway within the stadium in addition to the football field and baseball diamond. The stands will provide seats for 75,000 spectators.

Construction of the center stands will begin during the summer of 1922 and will be completed in about a year. Seven hundred thousand dollars of the amount needed for the recreation field has already been subscribed by the student body. The remaining funds are to be subscribed by the 42,000 alumni in a nation-wide drive which will begin the first week in November.

McGILL SONG BOOK TO BE ON SALE SOON

Class Presidents Met Yesterday at the Union.

MODERATE PRICE.

Representatives Will Be Appointed to Canvass

A big personal canvass of all the students will be started on Thursday morning with the purpose of selling the new McGill Song Books, which are at present coming off the press. This was the decision which was arrived at yesterday at the meeting of the class presidents.

Jack Copeland, president of the Students Council, explained the purpose of the meeting and called upon F. O. Peterson to give full particulars concerning the books themselves and the position of the Song Book Committee. Mr. Peterson pointed out that as the needs of the graduates in this matter had been fully attended to it was now time to see that all undergraduates should be given an opportunity to buy this book. He also showed that this and up-to-date edition of McGill and popular songs was being offered to the students at a price that was slightly under name—$1.50, and that it was certainly a good buy for any wishing to do so.

A discussion as to the best means of selling the books was then entered into and those present came to the conclusion that each class should appoint representatives to canvass the members of the respective classes and that full details should be sent to the class presidents in time to start the drive on Thursday morning. Application blanks and a sample copy will accompany each set of directions and a very successful sale of books is looked for. These books have been looked for many a year and they are certainly some thing that every undergrad can use. They contain all the old and new college songs and many a popular song and in the years to come they should prove a great source of interest as well as amusement to al! who buy them now. Do not forget then. If you want a Song Book help your representative by seeing him the first thing on Thursday morning.

DENT. UNDERGRADS IN FIRST MEETING

Dr. Thornton Guest of Honour — Important Business.

The first meeting for the year of the Dental Undergraduate Society of McGill University will take place on Friday evening, Oct. 21st at 8 p.m., in the New Medical Building. This will be a most important meeting for two reasons—the general policy of the Society for the coming year will be decided upon, and the freshmen will have a chance of meeting their fellow students in the same faculty, and their dean Dr. Thornton.

By this time the freshmen need have no fear of any sophomore interference, and they are cordially invited to the first meeting of the society. Refreshments and smokes will be served.

The main thing to be decided will be the information of a general sports committee for the whole faculty, which will be composed of representatives from each of the years. Besides this the actual formation of a Dental Orchestra will take place. Active steps are now being taken to find out all in Dentistry who can play any musical instrument, and these gentlemen will be asked to form an orchestra.

The election of a representative from the first year to the Dental Society will take place, and the question of nominations for the Students' Council and the Union House Committee will be taken up.

Of course the main attraction for the evening will be the presence of the genial Dean of Dentistry, Dr. A. W. Thornton, who has kindly consented to address a few words to the assembled Dents. Dr. Thornton is well and widely known as a brilliant speaker, and besides this the Freshmen present will have an opportunity to become acquainted with him.

This year the funds of the Dental Society are in a flourishing condition, and the refreshments will be an improvement on those of previous years. All up!

"We drank from the same canteen," said the veteran of a buddy.

"Wasn't you scared of microbes?" asked the little girl admirer.

"Honey, No microbes could have lived in the stuff we were drinking."

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1921.

THE BEST IN COLLEGE LIFE.

In the library are many interesting books. Often we wander about from shelf to shelf, taking down a book here and a book there, whose titles have appealed to us, and as we glance through them we sometimes think how fine it would be were we free to browse through the library for days on end, and read just what we pleased. Of course, we all determine to read some of these books, some day, but for most of us that day keeps ever vanishing before us in that dreamland, the future. Perhaps it would be better if we had less work to do, fewer examinations to cram for. Then we might spend some idle hours in the library, reading the books that appealed to us, and picking up an education that would be real, because our interest in what we read would be genuine, and not stimulated by fear of the dread April examiner. Yet, would the undergraduates spend their leisure time in acquiring greater learning? They might, and again they might not, most probably not. The human is a peculiar animal, and likes to be driven to and directed in his work. Leisure time would form a criterion of character. The spineless man would not have sufficient initiative to go ahead and educate himself. The man of strong character and great ambition would work and would perhaps derive more benefit from such a course of varied reading than he would from a more exactly-prescribed course.

College life is somewhat like the library. In it are many good things, corresponding to the good things in the library. We look on and we would like to join in all these good things, but we are so busy educating ourselves, or rather, being educated, that we have not time for everything.

There are sports. Most red-blooded men would like to become champion athletes. And though all men are not peculiarly fitted by nature to become champions, every man in the university should care for his health, for virile strength is at the basis of success, and we all wish to succeed in life, or, we should not be here.

There are the different clubs and social organizations of the university. In these we meet with our fellow students, and that is an education that almost overshadows the importance of the academic side of our work. In these clubs and societies we will come into contact with men from all parts of Canada, and indeed, from many foreign countries as well. These men may come from nearly all walks of life, and we can learn something from them all, even the least and the most insignificant. Let us remember that a humble exterior often conceals a character of rare gold.

The university offers us many good things. We can find no opportunity of enjoying them all, but let us at least enter into some activity, outside our purely class-room work, for only in that way will we be able to enter fully into the throbbing life of our great college.

It often happens that when we are passing through a certain experience we cannot feel that it has changed our characters or outlook on life at all. The change comes later. That in many cases is true of the war. The war ended months ago, but many men are only beginning to realize that it was the war which developed a stronger character in them, and which has given them a spirit of fortitude that will stand any amount of buffeting about. We may not realize that college life is benefiting us, but rest assured if we do the best we can in our college years we shall reap the benefit in the years to come.

THE STUDENTS' SOCIETY.

To-day at 5 p.m., the Annual meeting of the Students' Society will be held. During this meeting many matters of vital interest to the student body will be discussed, therefore all men who can possibly be there at the appointed time, should attend.

One way of helping and strengthening your university is by coming out to meetings such as these, and taking an active interest in them. Every man should consider it his personal duty to attend, for if every one were to leave it to the other fellow, the number present would be small indeed. If the attendance is large, what business there is to be done will be put through with a swing, and the decisions arrived at, instead of being settled by a few who may or may not know what the undergraduate body at large desires, will be the wishes of the majority. We should all be interested in our governing body, and this gives us an opportunity of becoming acquainted with it and to get some insight into the ways in which the affairs of student life are conducted.

Last year there was a marked improvement of the attendance at student meetings, and it is hoped that this year there will be a still greater increase noticed.

MED. '23 HOLD AN ANNUAL MEETING

Yesterday morning the annual meeting of Med. '23 took place, when the election of officers for the coming year was held.

The new president is Cecil Hay, who is well known in college circles for his all-round ability both in sports and academic duties.

The vice-president is G. Aylward, who has made a name for himself also during his office of various college circles.

The secretary is G. Boon; the treasurer, Philip Silver; reporter, G. Boon, and baseball representative Anglin.

Bounder—"What are all those trunks doing over there by the stage door?"

Rounder—"Why those are the chorus girls' clothes."

Bounder—"Let's go to another show."

CLASS OF ARTS '23 START JUNIOR DANCE

Yesterday at noon the junior year of Arts held a meeting at which several important matters were settled in record time. One of these was the appointing of the Arts representatives on the Junior Dance Committee, who are E. W. Willard and Bishop.

Last year Science got the lead by starting the Junior Dance arrangements, but Arts '23 have preceded the other faculties for this season. The appointment was made of G. H. Craik and J. H. Hutcheson as sport representatives for all athletics connected with Arts '23.

The matter of an Arts representative to the Students' Council, and also members to the Union House Committee was brought up.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communication from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

Editor, "McGill Daily":

Dear Sir,—I beg to call the attention of your readers to the fact that here in McGill very little interest is taken in public speaking. Unfortunately as that may be it is by far the more to be regretted that so little opportunity is given to those who are interested. The Literary and Debating Society are doing excellent work, I know, but I feel that this society should play a more important part in our college life.

Last winter an attempt was made to form a mock parliament. It failed. The reason, I believe, is plain—it was too late in the season. Every student would naturally have his weekly schedule made up long before the first of February. I would advise the Literary Society to bring such a proposal before the student body as soon as possible. The approaching Federal elections will no doubt create an added interest in political affairs, so that success is almost certain.

A well conducted mock parliament will offer every undergraduate an opportunity to show both his political and his oratorical ability. It will furnish an hour of pleasure and sociability. It will be a training ground for our future statesmen. Now is the time for action, so "Come on fellows, let's go."

POLITICUS.

Editor, "McGill Daily":

Dear Sir,—I would like to make use of your correspondence columns for two purposes:

Firstly, to thank those members of Science who have contributed towards the Science Athletic Fund for their voluntary gift which will give Science a good equipment for all their athletics.

Secondly, to point out to those who have not been solicited, for the purpose of saving the collectors from repeating themselves a hundred times, that the funds will be used to secure once and for all a decent stock of articles necessary for participation in interfaculty Rugby and Hockey. Previous to this interfaculty sports have been greatly handicapped by having no uniforms of any description, and men have been discouraged from turning out for this reason. This equipment is being bought, and surplus funds will be handed on to those in charge next year for a similar purpose. We ask those in Science who have not already given their four bits to make it easy for the person engaged in the disagreeable job of collecting by having their money ready when asked for.

Thanking you for your space,
MGR. SCIENCE FOOTBALL.

HISTORIC RUGBY IN OLD WORLD

England and France are Opponents Again.

No such Rugby football match as that between France and England, played on Easter Monday at Colombes, a few miles from Paris, has ever been witnessed before. It told in a way significant and positive of the beginning of a new, a more vigorous France, a nation that may now measure her strength against countries in games which they claimed, without arrogance, to be severely their own. France did not win—the score was 10-6—but the English team which have this season known no defeat found it hard to carry the day.

The cold critic would, perhaps, have it that the match was not remarkable for brilliance, that it fell much below a perfect exposition, but no game could have been harder or a more exacting test of manhood. It was a match seen before a record crowd; the "gate" receipts were more than twice as large as the previous test, reaching something like £10,000 at the pre-war rate of exchange.

Marshal Foch came long before the kick-off, to be received as the mighty hero that he is, and the while some 30,000 people, representative of all classes of France, stood at attention, heads uncovered, the great soldier stood at the foot of a tablet that is to tell of the Rugby men who fell in the war. The scene was profoundly impressive.

France did not enjoy the assistance of Struxianio, who has come to be regarded as the most accomplished inside half she had yet produced; but Piten and Bosquet, who were behind their forwards, rose to the occasion manfully. Every man of France reached his best form, so that although England took a lead of five points before the match was more than ten minutes old by means of a try got by Lowe, who is a small man, but a threequarters of unusual merit—from which a goal was kicked, she was never certain of victory. The tackling

MARITIME CLUB FIRST MEETING

New Officers Elected for Coming Term.

The first meeting of the Maritime Club was held yesterday afternoon in the Strathcona Hall for the purpose of electing officers for the coming term, and deciding upon a plan of action for the winter's activities. The minutes of the meetings held last year were read by the secretary and adopted. After the treasurer's report came the election of officers, as follows:—

Hon. Pres.—Dr. Chipman.
President—A. E. Trites.
Vice-Pres.—L. Webster.
Secretary—J. C. Simpson.
Treasurer—Graham.
Nova Scotia Rep.—Larks.
New Brunswick Rep.—R. H. Higgins.
P. E. Island Rep.—K. S. McLean.

The president then addressed the society and moved that the Maritime students of the R.V.C. be not required to pay the usual fee of $1.00 membership in the club. His motion to make them honorary members, and as such, exempt from all fees, was carried unanimously.

The meeting was then thrown open for discussion, and a motion was put through to choose a vice-president from the R. V. C. to co-operate with the executive in making arrangements for dances, skating parties, etc. The names and addresses of the members present at the meeting were handed in to the secretary.

The necessity for the hearty co-operation of every member of the club was emphasized. Maritimers are noted for their ability to work together, and judging from the social activities of the Club last winter, there should be a good time in store for the members this term.

THE CHEER LEADER.

See, there he stands, that mighty man
All clad in red and white,
The leader of the Rooters' Clan,
And chief in many a fight.

The scene is set, there is the crowd,
Our back gains twenty yards,
The rooters yell and chant aloud
The lays of ancient bards.

The leader jumps and loudly states
"Already now, let's go."
He squirms, he bends, gesticulates
And shakes from tip to toe.

He runs his hands along the ground,
He shakes a wicked knee,
And wildly waves his megaphone,
Ah, 'tis a treat to see.

The team did win, ah! great relief,
And gee, but it was grand,
But don't forget the yelling chief of the French backs was magnificent; their speed at times extraordinary. England increased her lead by another goal following a try obtained by the forward Blakiston before the interval, but thereafter after players could not score before half-time, so that there was only seven points difference when the first 40 minutes had been played.
And his tough-lunged Rooters' Band.

It was after the resumption that the best football of France was seen. Her eight forwards, though much handicapped because of their lack of weight, refused to be brushed to one side. They had quite as much of the play as those of the English pack, and Piten and Bosquet at halfback were ever ready to pounce upon their opportunities. But it has to be said that Bosquet missed the easiest possible chance to get a try, and more than once the French threequarters were unstead and lacked ballast at crucial moments. As it was, France could get only a second penalty goal.

I have seen England in all her international, and after her game with Scotland at Inverleith we all said that her team was a great one: forwards splendid and possessed or rare adaptability; halfbacks near to being perfect; threequarters of the highest class, and Cumberlege, a fullback entirely dependable. Such was our faith in England that a handsome victory against France was confidently expected, but the men of France by their speed, the certainty of their tackling, their refusal to surrender, made it impossible for the Englishmen to find their true game. The English forwards did not dominate the match as was expected. Kershaw and Davies, men of the service, were not entirely happy in their association at halfback and they were unable to develop attack in anything like a characteristic way. Kershaw for the most part could not subdue Piten. The result was that Davies did not get very much of the ball and when he did get possession he found it hard to escape the tackling of his opponents. But very frequently, in a fashion unpardonable, Davies gave his passes with strange recklessness, and the wonder was that his speculation did not cost his side several points, for the French threequarters were amazing in the way in which they intercepted. French back have ever had more than an average turn of speed. André and Falliot, in other seasons we have seen do wonders by reason of their sprinting powers, but in Crabs France has a threequarter who not only covers the ground at a high rate, but is a finished footballer. He, together with Lobis and Clement did much to try and win this memorable game at Colombes.

As I watched these three Frenchmen I remembered Verdun; they knew the heavy battalions were not with them, but

STIRRING DOINGS AT PRES. COLLEGE

Freshmen Duly Initiated by Senior Men.

The general public may not be over interested in the happenings of the Presbyterian College, but as a lesson to the Freshmen of McGill, who will persist in attempting to worst their seniors, this short article may prove helpful.

Last night, without having received any due cause for alarm, the new residents of that noble pile just west of the museum commonly called the P. C., barred the entrance to one of the wings of the building, and behind this barrage sought refuge. At this point the hallway is very narrow, and at the end there is a steep flight of stairs. Beds, springs, chairs, mattresses and trunks were all roped together to make a very formidable-looking barricade.

At first the older residents resolved to let the innocents remain in their fortified position and enjoy the delights of their secluded stronghold, but the temptation was too great, the blood of their old Presbyterian forefathers overcame their merciful intentions.

Hastily but thoroughly the plans were laid. Silently three or four of the more daring individuals were lowered by a rope of sheets to a window in the besieged zone. Quietly, they entered, then waited. The plans worked as smoothly as clock-work, not a hitch was made.

A concentrated attack was made by a large force on the barricade. Simultaneously the men enclosed in the room broke forth. Then—Oh, what a mess was there, my countrymen!

The "Daily" reporter at the risk of his own life, from pneumonia, such was the deluge of water that met the invaders, arrived at this moment at the scene. Hisses, threats, howls of pain, rose upon the midnight breeze from the squirming bodies, which were "gyring and gymbaling in the wabe."

However, as usual, the innocents were soon trusted up and went through numerous painful experiences. But, at what a cost! The West Flat, Tuesday morning, resembled a portion of shell-torn Ypres and then some. As for the students, many seem to be all the lighter for the want of a few locks of their curly golden hair, and some sticky substance closely resembling molasses is still to be seen trickling down their handsome countenances.

After the show, which lasted until midnight, all wended their way Traymorewards to the stirring squeal of the pipes and the roll of the drum. Enough said!

they put their backs against the wall and fought. They and their fellows did not fight for themselves; they fought as only men of France can fight. There was no brave like Clement. It may be claimed for this dark man of Tarbes that he is the greatest fullback in all the countries. He has reduced tackling to a fine art. When the game was over, 30,000 people rose to him and cheered him as one man.

PEPYS AT MCGILL.

Much put out and ill at ease these two days past. I think likely with over much junketing after the game at football on Saturday. At any rate I have most solemnly resolved to have no more truck with the foul yellow wine of the Scotch, only how long I may keep to this I know not being most sadly remiss in the keeping of such personal observances.

This same malady of the spleen did keep me from the special service of our colleges on the Lord's Day, whereat I am told there was a goodly throng, and I fear that I missed much that was edifying, more especially the solemn music and the reading of the lessons by the Lord Rector. Put on this day a new modish cravat of knitted silk, which I think became me very well.

I feel I do ill, but I could not but think that all the dons were most tedious in all their discourses this day. Truth to tell I fell asleep at last after too abundant a fill at midday, though I must set all this down rather to a natural distraction of mind than to any wilfulness on my part, being, as indeed I am, so overwrought at the thought of my election as a Counselor in the games of indoor put-and-take between my class and the others of this Facultie. Not that I would sue for office of any man, though I cannot but feel myself well-fitted for the task with the blood of so able a man as my grandsire Pepys running in my veins. He being, as all assert, the most truly admirable of all the King's Secretaries of the Navy in his day, and in any other be it said for that matter. It may be Providence has reserved me for great things.

They say to-morrow a meeting of the Clerks' Guild or Society, where I take it all my fellows will be present, though how they can put them all into the one big hall I cannot see. If haply my health be restored once more I shall attend. Saw a sightly hat on St. Catherine St., this day, but must possess myself until after the casting up of my accounts. I cannot see how I can fail to be of the committee. I have mentioned, yet it doth trouble me sorely.

STUDENTS SAID TO BE CONVENTIONAL

(P. I. N. S.)—"Conventionality rather than originality is evident in college students," said Prof. W. W. Lyman, associate in English and Celtic, in a recent interview. "Students in the universities are too standardized and are apt think alike. In Europe universities the tendency to become conventional is not quite as striking as in America. Of the American universities, Harvard students show the most originality."

"Hazing is a manifestation of conventionality. Freshmen are forced by the sophomore vigilance committee to do and think the same way as the upperclass men, which prevents originality."

When asked how dormitories would affect the situation, Professor Lyman said, "Dormitories will naturally create similar sentiments, but the chief effect will be that students will become acquainted. Dormitories are desirable because they are the foundation of friendships."

"Most university students," continued Professor Lyman, "tend to have their opinions molded by their leaders. Members of a class will think the same as a professor, having no independent idea about the subjects taken up in class."

These are stirring times.

McGILL MEN GETTING BACK INTO LINE-UP

Working Hard in Preparation for Saturday's Game.

CHANGES BEING MADE.

"Flin" Flanagan Will Probably Not Play.

With the invalids straggling back to practice, activities in preparation for the Queen's game were renewed yesterday by "Shag," who seems intent on bagging Saturday's contest.

McGill will be considerably weakened by the absence of Flanagan, who seems doomed to bench duty for this game at least. Of course Flin himself is confident that he will be seen at his old position, but the Doctor is just a little skeptical as to whether the plucky half back will be out of bed for over a week.

Doug, McGregor, whose condition seemed very serious at first, is recovering rapidly, and may be in good enough shape to start against Queen's.

The absence of McGregor would mean that Livshin would be moved to centre and Lazier or Parsons used at inside wing. This would weaken the team, as the man at snap-back must be more familiar with the signals than any other player, and the new centre has only three days in which to get thoroughly familiar with the plays.

Jeff Russell, though badly hurt Saturday, will be out again, and is expected to show improved form. "Doug" Ambridge, who was waived away to the land of forgetfulness several times during the hectic afternoon, is showing no ill effects, and apart from a few scratches, looks to be in the pink.

The outside wing positions are giving Shaughnessy no end of worry, and he is going to make several changes before the end of the week. It would not be surprising to see Dome Bailey, who played stellar football against Varsity, back at his old position calling the signals, and Boo Anderson filling in in place of Flin.

The team will undoubtedly be shifted, and the changes will tend to give the team speed where speed is needed most. Dink Carroll may not start, but will be sent in when the Queen's kicking begins to falter, and his boot is sure to give McGill the needed edge at a critical moment.

MEDS'. HELD GOOD WORKOUT TUES.

Men Show Improvement in Second Practice.

Managers Katzman and Skully had the Meds. out in full force to-day, with the result that there was a larger turnout than before. Prospects for a winning team are indeed bright, and the opposing teams had better keep their weather eye open, or it will be Meds. on top for sure.

Quarterback Roach showed ability in his plays, and promises to be an outstanding member of the team. Captain Grassick also showed rare form, and kept the men going at all times.

Those turning out to-day were:—

Chisholm.
Taylor.
Roche.
Sloan.
McBride.
Pfeffer.
Whiteside.
Boyle.
McGuire.
Lynch.
Mirsky.
Sheiman.
Boucher.
Grassick.
McCullough.
Hamilton.
Fullerton.
Walker.
Cameron.
Urquhart.
Eager.
Bickford.

All men intending to turn out must be physically examined.

Practice to-day will take place on the Old Campus at 4 p.m.

All Meds. out, as first game is on Friday—Meds. vs. Science.

BOOST TEAM

"Boo" Anderson and his band of warriors are working hard to do their best for McGill. Let every one in the university—professor, student, and janitor—get behind and boost them along.

The game is not always won on the field. Get behind the team every day in the week. The support of students is necessary at the games but it is needed every bit as much everyday in the week. The team has shown that it will fight to the very end. "Shag" is a fighting coach and will not quit until after the season is finished and the uniforms laid away. Boost them.

A friend may smile and bid you hail. Yet wish you with the devil. But when a good dog wags his tail, You know he's on the level.

BOXING CLUB HELD MEETING LAST NIGHT

Large Attendance of Both Old-timers and New Men.

"DAD" LAMB SPOKE.

Inter-Class and Inter-Faculty Boxing to Be Promoted

The first meeting of the Boxing Club was held last night at 5.15 in the gymnasium of Molson's Hall, and a large turnout both of old-timers and new material augured well for the success of the present season's activities.

Dr. Lamb in the course of a short address, expressed his gratification at the large attendance. But every man, he declared, who is to take up boxing this year must be an enthusiast. It had sometimes been his experience that many who had turned out for the initial meetings had later decided that boxing was too strenuous a sport for them. This sort of thing was not wanted; every boxer this season must be a genuine and enthusiastic lover of the game. Dr. Lamb then explained the formalities to be complied with in order to secure a locker, and emphasized the fact that all boxers must have been classed at their physical examination in either category A or B. Any-one who had been placed in a standing below these classes, but who feels physically fit to take up boxing, may present himself at the gymnasium between 12.30 and 1 p.m., for re-examination.

An attractive programme for the year's work was outlined by Mr. Brewer, intercollegiate champion in the 145 lb. class. Inter-class and inter-faculty boxing is to be promoted, and there will be plenty of opportunity for men of all weights. Faculty representatives are to be appointed to watch for suitable material, and to keep pugilistic activities in the forefront of attention. Two or three smokers are to be held before Christmas, and some interesting bouts may be expected. Some trips to the United States to compete against American Universities are now being arranged for by correspondence, while, in all probability a team will be sent to box in Ottawa. Mr. Brewer emphasized the importance of Dr. Lamb's remarks on enthusiasm. Those but mildly interested in boxing will soon be weeded out, he said, as it is the intention of the instructors to test the new men in combat with some of last year's champions, and it will then be seen if they have the staying power and "guts" so necessary to all devotees of the ring.

Ernie Robinson, who is an old country man, and himself a boxer of some note, having won the City championship, will be on hand to give instruction to the men.

Robinson is a young man who is very fond of the fighting game. He knows and understands the science of fighting and combined with this, he also knows how to tell the other fellow how to go about it. This is perhaps the most essential trait for an instructor to have. Robinson has good material to work on, and with his able coaching we should be able to put out a winning team.

All men interested in the science of self-defence are urged to turn out for instruction in boxing. It is needless at this time to enlarge upon the value of such a course as is offered by the Boxing Club. The novice will be afforded an excellent chance of attaining proficiency in the art of self-defence, and at the same time keeping fit while avoiding the drudgery of routine work in the gym, and the more expert are here given an opportunity of doing something for the honor of class, faculty, or college. Turn out, men. The hours for the elementary class are at 5 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, while the advanced section meets on these same days at 6 p.m.

One by one our illusions go!

By diligent scholastic research the real status of the chivalrous knight of old has been revealed. Instead of the noble and romantic individual he has always been held to be the medieval knight has been found to be a rough behaved person without a spark of chivalry in his whole make up.

Suppose some cold-hearted scholar should prod into the past of the American cowboy and with unromantic eye emerge with facts which would totally change our idea of him today. Just suppose that instead of the rough and big-hearted knight of the plains that we have pictured him it were found out he had been a very commonplace sort of being. Instead of rescuing beautiful maidens from Indian hordes or bandits bold he would be reduced to the very unromantic figure of a sort of a home man, peeling potatoes on the door step of the ranch house, or playing checkers on a soap box in the general store speaking in unromantic tongue of cattle, cows.

It cannot be! The Wild West cowboy must ever be associated with bandits, Indians, rescues, and every thing we have always pictured as typical of the big romantic west. Better the scholars leave untouched the past of this truly American knight than dispel our illusions with cold unromantic facts.

CAMPAIGN FOR S.C.A. FUNDS TO START MONDAY

Activities of S. C. A. for Coming Year Outlined.

NEED FOR SUPPORT.

S. C. A. Must Raise Money for National Board.

The Student Christian Association of McGill will on Monday next launch its first drive for funds to enable it to carry on its work for the coming session. When the S. C. A., this spring took over the buildings and most of the old staff of the McGill Y. M. C. A., and incorporated itself in the Dominion Student Christian Movement, an organization with world-wide affiliations, it gave up an annual grant of sixteen hundred dollars which had been coming to it for years from the Metropolitan Y. M. C. A., and assumed part of the National Budget of the whole Movement.

The S.C.A. besides its work of encouraging men to think, not necessarily to make of them orthodox Christians of the old school but to get them squarely and fearlessly to examine those matters that are too often dismissed with a sneer, and suspected of being more or less mediaeval and unreasonable to educated people, carries on several branches of activity directly relating to the student, even the undergraduate who cares nothing for the Association.

The Freshman reception at the beginning of the year were put on by the S. C. A. The Conversat will be their work. Snow-shoe and skating-parties during the winter from part of their programme. The room directory, so useful to incoming men, is made up and circulated by them. The hand-book comes from the Association; the Hall, with his rooms for sixty men is run under their responsibility.

All these things take money. The deficit this year runs well into four figures. Besides this amount the S. C. A. must raise one thousand dollars for the National Board, which keeps the various Associations in touch with one another and gives coherence to the effort of the Movement.

The S. C. A., is not run for a group. Its privileges are at every man's disposal. No outside body dictates to the board of directors, and the directors are chosen by and mostly from undergraduates.

All men at McGill owe their support to the S. C. A. remember, when he is approached by his class collector during the first few days of next week, that he has a stake in the Hall, that it is being run for him as much as for anyone else, and by him if he will take a part in it. The Association is NOT a bunch of mollycoddles, and does not encourage them in the least. It is a live organization, whose energy and worth are recognized by all those who have in the least investigated it: by other University as well as by graduates of McGill and friends of McGill in the city.

The undergraduates objective is sixteen hundred dollars, the amount of the deficit. Let us oversubscribe it.

FIRST INTER-FACULTY RUN FOR HARRIERS

Start from Stadium at Four O'Clock.

ROUTE MARKED OUT.

Prospects for Successful Race Very Bright.

To-day is the first big Inter-faculty Harrier run of the year, and all the long distance runners around the College are urged to turn out and uphold the honour of their various faculties. The Harrier Club Executive held a meeting yesterday, and all the final details for the race were decided upon. The course will cover a distance of approximately four miles, and the runners will be started at the Stadium at four o'clock sharp. The route will be well marked out, and volunteers, who are interested in the welfare of the Harrier Club in particular, and the College in general, are asked to turn out and help direct the runners over the course. All men who wish to help the Club in this way are asked to report at the Stadium by 3.30, either to Norm. Egerton or Stan. Read, both of Arts '23. The course will follow the well known route of Fletchers Field to the Serpentine, where the runners will turn and start back on the happy road to home.

Entries have been received during the past few days, and in order to give all who wish to compete a good opportunity to do so, it has been decided to receive entries up to the time of the starting of the race. Many a man has been out during the past few days, and the prospects for a very successful race are very bright. It is hoped that when the time comes this afternoon that at least 25 runners will be on hand.

The faculties will combine as follows: Arts and Law; Medicine and Dentistry; Science. The ranking of these faculties as to their ability in the art of harrier running, will depend upon the number and the quality of the men who turn out, so all runners should make it your business to see that your faculty is the winner.

However, the final choice of the team which will compete in the annual Inter-collegiate Harrier meet to be held in Kingston during the first week in November, will not be definitely settled till after the second Inter-faculty run, which will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 26th. However, to-day's run should bring out some interesting material, and all who have any ambitions of making this year's team should turn out and show what they are worth.

Another interesting event in the harrier world is the C.P.R.A.A.A. annual road race on Saturday, and as the entries for this event close to-day, all who intend to compete should fill out their entry forms as soon as possible.

Several McGill men have already entered, and the race is expected to prove very interesting.

A rich man in his years of toil Burned barrels and barrels of midnight oil.
His son now keeps his memory green By burning midnight gasoline.

The Navy scored a touchdown on a blocked kick at the opening of the second quarter, and in the fourth quarter, King, who two years ago won the Army game by kicking two field goals from place, performed the same feat out of four attempts. It was the alertness of McKee, who took Barchet's place, that gave King his chances, as this player caught the ball on Princeton's passes and put it well in the Tiger's territory.

FIRST WATER POLO GAME OF SEASON

McGill Intermediates to Meet LaSalle Team.

The initial game of water polo for the McGill Intermediates will take place at the Ville Imore baths, Verdun, to-night at 9 p.m.

McGill plays a strong aggregation in the LaSalle team, a fast and interesting game being promised.

McGill's men are in rare form, showing a decided improvement over last year's team. Repeated workouts have brought out the very best from every man, and the team as a whole is a formidable aggregation, being very fast and playing each play with precision and surety.

Those comprising the team are:

Goal—G. McKendry.
Defense—J. Forsyth and W. Munn.
Centre—J. Ross.
Forwards—G. Vickerson and A. Gray.
Spare—Anson.

Mr. D. K. Walton will officiate as referee, and Mr. I. McLaren will act as judge of play.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER BAND HAD MEETING

A group of members of the Student Volunteer Band met in Room B, Strathcona Hall, for their first meeting of the season. The President, R. Collins, outlined in brief some of the activities which will go to make up the programme during the session. The Band was fortunate in having Mr. Murray Brooks, one of McGill's representatives in Ceylon, to address them on some of the requirements necessary for work in the Foreign Field.

It is to be hoped that all former members of the Band, as well as any other students interested in the work of the Foreign Field, will be present at the next meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 26th, at 7.30 p.m., in Strathcona Hall, Room B.

NOTICES

STUDENTS' SOCIETY.

The Society is scheduled for to-day. The Annual Meeting of the Student Society, October 19, at 7 p.m. Among the other items that are due for discussion then is that of election of Faculty Representatives to the executives of the Major Sports. Notice was posted in the evening, that an amendment be made whereby faculty representatives in future be elected by the various faculties themselves, and not at the Society Meeting. The reason advanced in support of the motion for amendment is primarily that by the time the meeting of the Athletic Clubs are held, after the Students' Society meeting is adjourned, the few undergrads who remain are far from representative and are in the main disinterested parties as far as concerns the election of the various Faculty representatives.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Owing to the meeting of the Students' Society this afternoon, the Athletic Association will meet in the Union to-day at 4.45 sharp. The presidents of all college athletic clubs are to be present. The meeting will be brief.

SCIENCE RUGBY.

Practice to-day at 4.30 p.m. Please change in Molson's Hall, and be on the field at 4.30, as it will be dark soon after. As a captain will be chosen it is important that we have a good turn-out.

R.V.C. UNDERGRADUATE SOCIETY.

An important meeting of the R.V.C. Undergraduate Society will be held in the R.V.C. Common Room on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 1 p.m.

R.V.C. TENNIS.

All players are hereby notified that the games of the Inter-Class Tennis Tournament must be played off as follows:

Singles.

Semi-finals—By to-night.

Final—By Thursday night.

Doubles.

Semi-finals—By Friday night.

Finals—Saturday afternoon.

These games absolutely must be played off according to schedule, as any further delay will interfere with sports practices.

GENERAL MEETING OF THE E. T. CLUB.

This evening, at 5 p.m., in Strathcona Hall, Room B, first floor up, a general meeting will be held to elect officers for three committees and to discuss other important business. All new comers are requested to be present. Everybody turn out and try to make the organization worthy of its name. Support and co-operation are the big factors which will lead to a successful year. Remember! 5 p.m., Room B, Strathcona Hall.

C. O. T. C.

The McGill Contingent of the C. O. T. C. holds parades every Tuesday from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m., in the Montreal High School, University St. These drills are accepted by the Department of Physical Education as equivalent to the compulsory gymnastic work.

Men may try a certificate examinations after putting in 40 hours' drill; successful candidates qualifying for commissions in the militia. Recruits may sign on daily, except Saturday and Sunday, from 5 to 6 p.m., in the East Wing, Arts-Building, or at the Tuesday parades.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION.

Any students of the First Year who have not already been examined may be examined to-day, between 12.30 and 1.30 at Molson Hall. Students of higher years, but entering the University for the first time, may also be examined to-day.

WATER POLO GAME.

Water Polo—McGill Intermediates vs. LaSalle, at Ville Imore Baths, Verdun, 9 p.m.

ARTS-LAW FOOTBALL.

There will be a practice for Inter-faculty football for Arts and Law at 2.30 this afternoon.

MEDICAL FOOTBALL.

Medical Inter-faculty football practice, Old Campus, 4 p.m.

INDOOR BASEBALL.

The last general meeting before the league commences will take place at the Union this evening at 5 p.m. Eight classes have already signed up, so get busy, as to-night will be the last chance for any classes not entered to come in.

Any information desired can be obtained from O. L. McCullough, Com. '23, or S. Gamble, Com. '23, so there will be no excuse if any team is left out.

The first years especially should get busy, as this league gives them the first chance to get their numbers.

All out for the meeting; we don't want a thousand, still we want a thundering good crowd, just the same.

ARTS '25.

A meeting will be held in Room 5 of the Arts Building at 10.00 a.m., of all those in the freshman year who are interested in Indoor Baseball.

JUNIORS.

All junior classes that have not already done so are requested to elect representatives for the Junior Dance Committee. The first meeting will be held in the music room of the Union on Friday, 21st October.

ERSKINE SOCIAL.

All students are cordially invited to attend a special musical service next Sunday evening, Oct. 23, at Erskine Presbyterian Church. The service will be followed by a social hour, during which refreshments will be served.

TENNIS.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the Tennis Club on Thursday, at five o'clock, in the Union.

McGILL UNION HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Nominations for faculty representatives on the McGill Union House Committee signed by ten active members of the respective faculties will be received at the Secretary's Office up till 6 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25. The election of these representatives will be held in the various Faculties on Thursday, Oct. 27.

GLEE CLUB MEETING

The re-organization meeting of the Glee Club, which was announced for Wednesday, at 5 p.m., has been changed to next Friday, Oct. 21, at the same hour, on account of the Students' Society meeting.

R. V. C. ATTENTION.

See Athletic Board for notices concerning sports. They are coming off on Saturday, Oct. 29. Sign up now, and get out to practice at once.

R. V. C. SWIMMING.

Swimming will start this week, and all girls interested should see the Athletic Notice Board for further particulars. Don't make a mistake! You don't need to have signed up in order to be able to swim. Fifty tickets will be issued each week, and any not claimed by those who signed up, will be given to anyone who wants them. Tickets are only 25 cents each, so come and enjoy a swim. If you don't already swim, now is your chance to learn!

R. V. C. ROOTERS!

Anyone who wants to go with the rooters to the Queen's game next Saturday, must sign up before Thursday night.

R. V. C. SPORTS.

Everybody! The lists are now posted on the Athletic Notice Board for entries for the events of Sports Day, which will take place on Saturday, Oct. 29th. The eliminations will be run off on Wednesday, Oct. 26th. All entries must be signed up by Thursday night, when the lists will be taken down.

R. V. C. '23.

There will be a meeting of R.V.C. '23 on Thursday, Oct. 20, in Room 12 at 1 p.m. All the members of the Class are urgently requested to attend.

INTERESTING LECTURE AT MED. BUILDING

Prof. Tait Spoke to Physiological Society.

LARGE GATHERING.

Told of Research Work of Prof. Lister.

Before a very large gathering of the newly formed Physiological Society, Prof. John Tait delivered a most interesting lecture last night, at the Old Med. Building.

Prof. Tait really centered his lecture on that eminent surgeon of his time, Lister. Antiseptics were totally unknown in those days, and it remained for Lister to discover them and thereby revolutionize medical energy. As Prof. Tait pointed out, it was not until Lister was appointed Professor of Surgery at Glasgow University in 1860 that he began his research work. Here among such staunch friends as Dr. Gairner and Sir William Thompson he wrote many papers on Surgery, Anaesthetics, devised a tourniquet and a new needle. It was in 1865 that Lister reached the great critical stage in his career. It was the same year that the German Surgeon Lemeleweiss died through infection. He now began to publish on papers on Antiseptic Surgery, but unfortunately, was only understood by his own students, and elsewhere met with opposition as to his theories. When he left for the University of Edinburgh some four years later, he received more opposition and criticism even from such men as Simpson. He went on with his work in spite of all this, devising now such things as cat gut ligatures and various dressings, and most things which are used in surgery to-day. It is quite impossible to conceive what this eminent man did for surgery—when we consider the age he lived in and the opposition he encountered. It may have been some consolation to him to have his theories accepted in Germany, where they were eagerly adopted. However in a few years later, on his return to London, he was given a great ovation as his theories and experiments proved successfully. In recognition of his Services to humanity he was later knighted, and made a peer of the Realm. He died at the age of 85 years. Lister's life affords us a wonderful moral. Born a scientific man, his supreme characteristic being his extraordinary adherence to the truth. His opponents, who, although very eminent, could not grasp his ideas and so assumed opposition to them and incidentally to him. And as Prof. Tait said; we ought never to disprove of any one else's idea until we have tested and tried them and found them wanting.

Following this lecture the election of officers for the coming session took place, resulting as follows:
Hon. Pres: Prof. John Tait.
Pres.: —R. V. Ward.
Vice-Pres., D. S. Porster.
Sec.-Treas.: —S. W. Britton;
Librarians: —R. O. Phillips and J. S. Henry.
The meeting to-night and the attendance augurs very well for the future of the society. The meeting was adjourned after a vote of thanks was delivered to Dr. Tait and the Pres. Mr. Ward.

SEAMAN, FIRST CLASS.

He said he didn't want to die, because The Bible had it there was no more sea. In that great country on the other side; And so he lay there white and starry-eyed.

His head and shoulders swathed in yards of gauze.
That made him look angelic. Jokingly I told him so. He turned and grinned at me.

"What would they do with sailor men up there?"
He jerked a doubting thumb toward the sky.

"I couldn't twang a harp or chant a hymn;
I might get giddy with the Seraphin Gosh, no! Give me a wiff of salty air To breathe in, and the waves all tossin' high,
And some skips deck to roll on, when I die,—

"That's Heav'n enough."... But when the morning came
They drew the sheet across his quiet face And went away and left him. So I knew That he was dead... I figure just the same.

That when he sailed across the starry space
He signed up with a happy sort o' crew From Galilee and some such other place.

NEW LEADER FOR SENIOR RUGGERS

Kemp Succeeds Helmcken as Captain of Team.

"Dutch" Helmcken, captain of the McGill English rugby squad, yesterday tendered his resignation as leader of the fifteen, Norm Kemp, the husky leader of the pack being chosen to guide the team for the remainder of the present season. Helmcken's resignation followed a serious injury sustained in the game against the team from the H.M.S. Wistaria, in which he received a hurt in the foot which will keep him out of the game for the rest of the year.

Yesterday the squad turned out thirty strong and despite the strenuous game played against the Montreal English on Monday, put in a stiff work-out in preparation for the game against the University of Toronto fifteen at the Queen City at the end of this week. Most of the players showed little effects of the hard struggle of the day previous, and the team should be in excellent condition for the first game under the English rules between representatives of the red and white and the blue and white. The return fixture will be played at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium on October 29, which will be an open date here, as the senior intercollegiate squad will be playing at Toronto, and the intermediates at Kingston in the opening game in their section of the intercollegiate.

The game, which was to be played on Saturday between the second team of McGill and Montreal English, has been called off so that the men can go to the big game between McGill and Queen's. All members of both squads are urged to come out to the practices, which will be held on the old campus every afternoon at 4 o'clock.

ARTS-LAW HOLD SECOND PRACTICE

Enough Men for Two Line-ups Turned Out.

The appeal that appeared two days ago in the correspondence columns of the "Daily" has met with an adequate response from the Arts and Law students to whom it was addressed. Enough men to form two line-ups turned out on the old campus yesterday afternoon at 1.30 for the second practice. Under the captaincy of S. D. Pierce the players have devised a system of signals, and are beginning to get a good deal of snap and precision into their plays. Although their strength has not, as yet, been tested in action, the players that have so far turned out seem to be strong on the line, while the wings are husky and fast.

Among those who will be in the line-up against Commerce is Chauvin, the last year's captain of Macdonald. Others who are trying for a place on the team are Ogilvie and Kruger, wings; Midstone, back; Gardner, quarter-back; Stone, Reid, Chave, Cousins, Willard, Allen, Anderson and Armstrong.

The team has not yet been picked, and more men are urged to turn out. A uniform practice is being held this afternoon at 2.30, and all new-comers will be given a thorough try-out.

Men of Arts and Law, do your bit for your faculty, don a football uniform and come out this afternoon.

Captain Aldrich of Yale has been playing the best football seen in the bowl this year. In yesterday's practice he carried the ball for a series of consistent gains netting over sixty yards and resulting in a touchdown for the "Varsity." Later he dropped a field goal over the crossbar at a distance of forty-four yards. On the whole, Aldrich is an all around player of formidable appearance and will bear watching.
